OWNERS OF MONTE CARLO DEFRAUDED

Employees Gave Excess Change For Notes Handed in by Confederates.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Paris, June 21.—Monte Carlo has been considerably stirred up by the discovery of a series of exceedingly clever frauds on the part of employees of the famous gambling casino. The plan was for a confederate to hand to a croupier a five hundred franc note, for change, and the croupier would give him, instead of five hundred francs, a thousand francs. Of course the croupiers and the banker of the table at which the confederate presented his note were necessarily in league, otherwise the scheme could not have been worked. The affairs of the casino are kept very secret and it is not known how much the syndicate managed to steal, but there is no doubt that the amount was a very large one. All of those concerned have been expelled from the principality.

THE PASSING OF AN OLD HISTORIC INN

London Writer Regretfully Remarks That Visiting-Book Is Owned By American Collector.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
London, June 21.—The Star and Garter hotel, one of the most historic and celebrated houses in England, is to be sold at public auction early in August. The hostelry, which crowns the summit of a world-famous view, has commanded a scene of many notable gatherings. An inn was first established on the site in 1738. A fire destroyed the older portions of the hotel some thirty-five or forty years ago. The banqueting house of the existing building was erected in 1864. The old Star and Garter was famous, among other things, for its theatrical associations. Garrick made the inn a rendezvous for his company and many noted stars, among them Edmund Kean, Mrs. Siddons, made it the regular place to spend their summer holidays. They wrote smart things in its visiting-book, and held many merry parties there. The visiting-book, like so many other relics of historic interest, is now in the possession of an American collector.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Boston, Mass., June 21.—Provincetown, the quaint and historic little settlement nestling on the upper shore of Cape Cod, will be the scene of notable ceremonies in August, when President Roosevelt is to visit the place and deliver an address at the laying of the foundation stone for the handsome memorial that is to mark the spot where the Pilgrims first set foot on American soil. The literary exercises will include a poem and a dedicatory hymn written for the occasion and addresses by Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Hon. William C. Lovering, and one or two others, in addition to the oration by the President.

STATE RESTS ITS CASE IN HAYWOOD'S MURDER TRIAL

Defense Asked That Jury Be Instructed To Bring In Verdict Of Acquittal.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Boise, Idaho, June 21.—The State has announced the close of its case against Haywood.
Charles S. Kingsley, the handwriting expert, testified to the writing of the waivers on the money telegrams sent from the Pettibone store in Denver in the names of "J. Wolf" and "P. Bone" to "H. Green" in San Francisco was done by the same hand that penned Pettibone's letter to John L. Stearns.
The first direct connection of Haywood with Orchard, and which strongly corroborated Orchard's story, occurred when Jim Seaborn, a colored horse-dealer of Denver, testified regarding the sale of a horse and buggy to Haywood.
Orchard had testified as to the sale of the team to Haywood. Today Seaborn pointed out Haywood as being with Orchard and Pettibone at the time the transaction took place. A recess was taken until 1:30, when the defense moved that the jury be instructed to bring in a verdict of acquittal.

Former Clerk of the Milwaukee Court First Decides to Stand Trial, Then Confesses.

Milwaukee, Wis., June 21.—Frank Woller, the ex-city court clerk and a confessed embezzler, evidently changed his mind about pleading guilty this morning and asked for bail. It was fixed at ten thousand dollars. Checks were found this noon which show that at least of the thirty thousand dollars' shortage went to local pool rooms. If it is found that the city's money by gambling suit will be brought to recover it, Woller says he tried to make up the shortage he experienced while running a bucket shop when Governor Flower of New York died and stocks took their sudden slump seven years ago.

WIRE STRIKE IN FRISCO

OPERATORS TO QUIT DISPUTE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

President Small of Commercial Telegraphers' Union Refuses to Abide by New York Decision.

Chicago, June 21.—The strike of the telephone operators, it was announced at one o'clock Friday morning, would begin at one o'clock Friday afternoon at San Francisco and Oakland, on a demand for a 25 per cent. increase in wages.

President S. J. Small of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America refuses to abide by the decision of the executive committee in New York Thursday afternoon to call off the strike.

Recognition of the Telegraphers' union by the Western Union Telegraph company is the demand of President Small—a demand which the executive committee in New York Thursday decided not to insist upon. President Small made the following statement in San Francisco at midnight:

"It makes no difference what the east may do. The union must be recognized."

How About Your House?

—or your barn? Which will get their first—lightning, or the Dodd & Struthers' Copper Cable Lightning Rod?

If the rod gets there first you can be absolutely sure that lightning will never touch it—it isn't possible for lightning and a Dodd & Struthers' rod to exist about the same building.

That's because the rod carries off the electricity in the vicinity of the building as fast as it accumulates—before enough of it accumulates to produce the condition which makes lightning possible.

The rod, you know, doesn't "attract" lightning—it simply forms a perfect conductor which, by carrying off the electricity with which the air is charged, prevents the building from becoming a magnet which would attract the electricity from the clouds and cause the explosion which we call "lightning."

Twenty thousand buildings in Iowa were equipped with the Dodd & Struthers' rod last season, and not a single building so protected was touched by lightning, while in scores of cases unprotected buildings only a few rods distant were struck.

That's why Dodd & Struthers absolutely guarantee their rod to give perfect protection.

I would like very much to show you, in a simple, convincing way, just why, and how this rod does its work. If you can't call, drop me a postal and I will show you at your own home.

SENTENCED FOR LAND FRAUDS.

Jail and Fines For Huntington, Todd and Hoyt.

Omaha, June 21.—Thomas H. Huntington and Ami D. Todd were sentenced by Judge Munger in the United States district court Thursday to pay a fine of $1,000 each and to be imprisoned in the Douglas county jail for three months. Fred Hoyt was sentenced to pay a fine of $1,000 and to stand committed to the Douglas county jail until the fine is paid.

The sentences are the result of the conviction of the three men after a ten days' trial on an indictment charging conspiracy to defraud the United States out of possession and title to large tracts of land in Sheridan and Cherry counties, this state, by means of false, fraudulent and fictitious entries and for subornation of perjury.

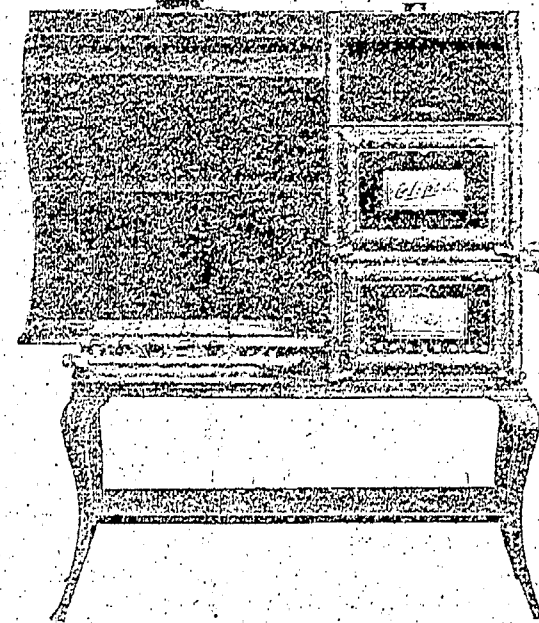

India's Great Problem.

To make India absolutely safe from famine, at least 25 per cent of the land should be brought under irrigation. This per cent would amount to an area of 74,000,000 acres. Of course, this presents a great and difficult problem, but what has been done gives ample guaranty that the problem will be solved.

THE THIRD WARD SCHOOL.

That something should be done with the third ward school building is not a debatable question. The people who know the most about it are the people who are obliged to patronize it, and from 200 to 300 of these people are on record with a petition, asking for relief.

They are especially interested because the health and welfare of their children is involved. From basement to roof the building is practically without ventilation and today, when a committee of aldermen visited the premises, the air was so foul and stifling that it was not fit to breathe.

It is easy to imagine what it must be when 500 children are packed away like sardines, which is the case in several of the rooms.

In the kindergarten department 55 children occupy a room which would be full with half the number and some of the little people are stowed away in the closets.

Some of the rooms have an air supply sufficient for eight pupils, yet forty-five children are compelled to breathe the atmosphere.

The wardrobes monopolize so many of the windows that the light is bad and eyes are being ruined every year. The school board, after careful investigation, has found that for $20,000 a wing can be built and the old building swamped and put in sanitary condition, and the council will be asked to make provision for the much needed improvements.

There should be no hesitation, on the part of the aldermen, in granting this request, and there can be none if the gravity of the situation is considered.

These improvements have been discussed for the past ten years, but the demands of other wards were urgent, and so the third ward building has been obliged to wait. It is a part of the public school system, and should be no longer neglected.

There is no argument in the statement that if it was good enough 25 years ago, it is good enough now. That is simply begging the question. The fact is that the building was always faulty in ventilation and sanitation and its faults are more prominent in the light of modern architecture.

No child should be compelled to sit day after day in a room which is unwholesome and the city owes it to the children to provide better quarters. Public sentiment will sustain the council in favorable action, and a few kickers should not be permitted to influence.

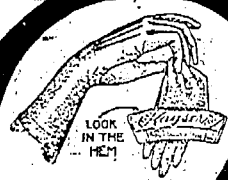

The appropriation of three hundred dollars annually to be used by the tobacco men of the state to exploit the growth of the weed promises to be a decided boon to the tobacco interests as it will enable them to pay the expenses of their annual meeting and give prizes for the exhibits.

That deer was not a "deer" nor did it come from the outside or the inside of an Elk or Hunter bottle. It was genuine and the golfers who laughed at a deer on their reserves are now being laughed at.

Improvement in the local sidewalk conditions will be appreciated by a large number of people.

MATRIMONIAL.

Rockwell-Silbeck
At the home of the bride's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Rockwell, in Johnstown Center, Miss Gertrude Rockwell and Gustav Silbeck of Chicago were wedded at one o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Rev. R. C. Denison of this city pronounced the ceremony which was witnessed by only the relatives of the young couple. At two o'clock a dinner was served. After a honeymoon trip Mr. and Mrs. Silbeck will reside in Chicago. The bride is a daughter of one of Rock county's oldest families and the groom is a civil engineer in the employ of the Rock Island railway company.

Launch Party: Nine young men members of the Janesville high school class of '06 enjoyed a launch party upriver last evening. The company took supper at the Brown cottage and then enjoyed a moonlight ride.

Signifying Nothing.

An Englishman who had studied in American politics while traveling in this country, when asked to give his estimate of the leading political parties, replied by telling this story: A young minister, who fancied his person but not his fame unknown, stopped to question a workman about the preachers he had heard. He put question after question, to which the man replied: "He's not sound." At last he said: "But what can you say of Mr. Blank (himself)?" "He's all sound," was the answer.—Kansas City Times.

It was reported on the streets today that the North River street planing mill occupied until recently by the Janesville Sash & Door company was to be rebuilt. The structure is in a somewhat dilapidated condition and it is considered possible that it be entirely reconstructed for a planing mill or for some other purpose.

Tainted Money in England.
The man who is charitable, or who joins heartily in the steady warfare now waging against poverty, is the man who is good—that is for the moment the decision of modern opinion. He may sacrifice the nobler objects of life to a rushing chase of fortune, may even pursue business methods which have in them an appreciable taint of cruelty, but if he is "benevolent," in the sense of readiness to make large charitable gifts, the world condones his action, or even regards him with admiration.—Spectator, London.

BACK FOR A VISIT AFTER FORTY YEARS

True Locke of Alameda, Calif., Who Migrated Westward in 1867, Is Greeting Old Janesville Friends.

True Locke, who left Janesville for the west in 1867, is exchanging reminiscences with old friends in the city and was a pleasant caller at the Gazette office this afternoon. "I read the Gazette when I was a boy, selling clothing for the Young America establishment here and responding to alarms with Col. Britton's fire company," was his remark as he presented a card. Mr. Locke has continued in the clothing business in Nevada and California during the forty years that have elapsed and is now connected with the C. J. Heesman firm of Oakland, one of the largest on the coast. He says that Oakland has gained 100,000 population in the course of a year owing to the labor and material obstacles which have interfered with the rapid rebuilding of San Francisco across the bay. Earthquake shocks are evidently no novelty, though they are religiously excluded from the news columns of the San Francisco papers. Mr. Locke says that he was awakened by one at 4:30 a. m. about a week before his departure on June 8 for the east. He has already spent several days with a brother and two sisters at Edgerton and hopes to carry back the late news of Janesville and vicinity to his sister, Mrs. Norris Jackson, when he returns to California about July 8. Some of the old acquaintances he met today were Dr. J. W. St. John, J. M. Bostwick, and Mrs. Van Kirk. His residence is at 2110 Buena Vista, avenue, Alameda, Calif.

OTTO SMITH HURT IN RUNAWAY ACCIDENT

Well Known Druggist Injured While Returning Last Evening from Fishing Trip to Newville.

Otto E. Smith of the Smith Drug company met with a rather serious accident last evening. He was coming home from Newville, where he had been fishing in company with Frank J. Hinterscheid, when the horse he was driving became frightened. In attempting to rein in the animal Mr. Smith was thrown forward and out of the rig by the breaking of a line. One foot caught in the spokes of the wheel and he was dragged a hundred feet before the horse was stopped. Severe contusions of the right leg and foot were sustained, the tendons and muscles badly strained, and bruises received about other parts of the body and face. Dr. James Mills was called this morning and found that the injuries will confine Mr. Smith to his home at 161 Prospect avenue for some time.

BIG SALE OF LOTS AT SPRING BROOK

New Addition Will Be One of Most Popular Opened in Janesville.

The new Spring Brook Addition which will be offered to the public tomorrow morning, has already given proof that it will become the most popular addition ever opened in Janesville. The lots have already been inspected by hundreds of people and when the sale opens at 7 a. m. Saturday, many will be on hand to secure lots which they desire. All who have looked over the Spring Brook Addition express the opinion that it will prove wonderfully popular, both from a sales standpoint and as a residence district. Its location, convenient to the manufacturing district, assures its success, and the location of the new North-Western yards nearby still further increases the desirability of the lots.

Spring Brook Addition will be the biggest success of the year, and indications are that there will be a big crowd on hand at the opening hour tomorrow morning to get first choice of lots.

Lot Sale Saturday.
See those lots on Leornie, Eastern, Pittman, Beloit avenues. You can't make a mistake when you buy in Spring Brook addition.

Marie Corelli on "Baby Talk."

When a man is born he at once displays that frigid and flexible disposition which is so often significant of his future development—and woman has to carry him up and down in her arms, talking nonsense to him, or as it is called, "baby language." She knows she has to begin that way, because he would not understand sense.

A circular designed to sell mining stock says: "The depositing of money in a bank is not investing from a business man's standpoint. It is a process by which you get a small 3 per cent and the banker who invests your money makes the big profits. The money which you are afraid to invest he will put in some mine, railroad or insurance. This bank does not invest the money in its charge in mining, railroad or insurance stocks. We do not take chances with your money though we do make a legitimate profit on the transaction. The bank's capital and surplus guarantee your deposit and it is ready for you when you want it. SCOVILLE TALKS TO VAST AUDI-

THE INTEREST INCREASES

Unusual Talk Last Night—Special Meetings Are to Be Held.

Meeting of unusual interest at the rink last night, which was attended by a great concourse of people, many driving in from ten and twelve miles.
The meeting opened with a spirited song service. No. 2 of the Scoville Smith song book struck a tender chord
in almost every one. The chorus had a great swing to it and the crowd caught the enthusiasm of the leader.
Mr. Jesse Van Camp, Mr. Dr. Loss
Smith touched the hearts of the people with his splendid solo—"The Name of Jesus."

The service was certainly one of the best, and Dr. Scoville was never more foremost than in his address of last evening.

He prefaced his sermon with a few remarks about the wonderful meeting for girls in the afternoon, under the leadership of Mrs. Scoville, Mrs. Dets and Mrs. Smith. Twenty-nine decided for Christ, the largest number in any meeting held by these devoted ladies.
Dr. Scoville's theme last night was taken from John 3:7—the beautiful conversation between Jesus and Nicodemus,
and Jesus' answer, "Ye must be born again." Nicodemus had seen tricksters, sleight-of-hand performers,
etc., but in Jesus he recognized a master hand. "No man can do these things except Thou dost except God be with him."

Can you be a John the Baptist to a better Christ? If so bring him on. A little girl wanted to cross a field, but a Billy goat stood in the gate. Her mother said, "Don't be afraid, there is no substance to you, the Billy goat can't hurt you. Don't you know you believe in Christian Science?" To which the little girl replied, "Oh, yes,
mamma, I know it, but the Billy goat
don't know it."

"Can a man be born when he is old?" Gypsy Smith said, "Yes, he can, but he is not apt to be." As a rule, if a man is going to be a minister he knows it before he is 30, if he is going to be a doctor he knows it before he is 30, or if he is going to be a lawyer he knows it before he is 30.

Nearly every important choice is made before that age. Are you afraid the saloons will get the professors and the Sunday school superintendents?
Why not? Because their habits are fixed. It is as hard to get people to quit sinning as to get men of good habits to fall into sin. Dr. Scoville asked all who started for Christ and the Christian life at fifty to raise the hand. Not a single hand could be seen extended. Those who became Christians at forty and there were only two raised; and those who started at thirty, and only six hands were lifted. When do you plant your corn?
Certainly not in the fall or in a snow-bank. Let us save the boys and girls before they are attracted to the dives
and dens of iniquity.

"What must I do to be saved?" You don't need to guess. Jesus gave us a rule: "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved."

What you think and what I think
does not count for much with God.
Each of us must give an account unto
God for himself. Your wife a Christian will not wait for you, you cannot
go into heaven by hanging on to your
wife's skirts. "Ye must be born again."
Jesus Christ has got the philosophy
of life. When you come to follow the Master you found the master way of living.

Nicodemus had some intellectual difficulties, perhaps you have. The great revival is needed the most where the Bible is studied the least. Sin did not begin in the slums. Nicodemus was an orthodox Jew, yet Christ said,
"Ye must be born again." You cannot change a bad apple by painting
it over, or putting putty in the holes.

What you think and what I think
does not count for much with God.
Each of us must give an account unto
God for himself. Your wife a Christian will not wait for you, you cannot
go into heaven by hanging on to your
wife's skirts. "Ye must be born again."
Jesus Christ has got the philosophy
of life. When you come to follow the Master you found the master way of
living.

SHORT TALKS BY
L. T. COOPER.

LACK OF ENERGY.

No man or woman can be successful or happy if they lack energy. If they get up in the morning
dreading the day's work
ahead they will accomplish very little. A great many people are this way.
The cause is
lack of vitality,
or energy is
the power to

Mr. A. G. Latubys, go and keep on going without becoming more than healthily tired. It comes from a perfectly working system just as power comes from a perfectly working engine. If you lack this power something is out of order. Ten to one it's your stomach.

This letter is from a man who tried it: "After suffering for some time from stomach trouble, loss of appetite,
headaches and a kind of 'all tickered
out' feeling I decided to try Cooper's New Discovery.

"I used to get up in the morning with my tongue coated and sick at my stomach. I would feel as though it was almost impossible to drag myself to work. Lots of times I had dizzy spells and backaches. After I used several bottles all these symptoms began to disappear and soon I began to feel like a new man. It is a pleasure to work for I always feel like it. I eat well, and sleep well and can sure I will have no further trouble with my stomach." A. G. Latubys, 167 Porter
St., Detroit, Mich.

It is estimated that nearly half a million bottles of the famous Cooper medicines were sold during Mr. Cooper's recent demonstration in Chicago.

A new pump will not cleanse a foul

if you would heal the wound. You can't get right with God until you get sin out.

I am not here to criticize the lodges of your city when they are caring for the sick and the poor they are doing a good work. Believing in a lodge does not make me a member of a lodge. I may know all about it, yet not be a member. I must believe in all that governs the lodge to be a member and follow its rules.

Belief does not save a man. Baptism will not do, confirmation will not do, "Ye must be born again."

Great meeting for women in the

The mass-meeting will be in the

be a great meeting and all men are invited.

GEORGE TRESCHER'S
DEATH IS VERY SAD

Young Man Taken in His Prime Was Buried on Saturday
Last.

Death is even sad, come to us in what form it may. We watch over the sick bedside of our loved ones, through the long vigils of the night, praying God may spare their lives a little longer, never ready for that last sad farewell. Doubly dear is the sudden summons of our dear ones, "to come up higher," and we rebel and shrink
from such news. Thursday morning, June 13, 1907, the sun never shone
more glorious, the birds never sang sweeter, and old Mother Earth never was clothed more brilliant in her flowers and foliage. But alas, over the wives from that far-off new country comes the message that almost broke loving hearts: "George is downed—will start home today." (Signed) Frank Jones. George Trescher was born in Milton, Oct. 18, 1886, and met

GEORGE TRESCHER

an untimely death, from drowning June 12, 1907. He, in company with his brother Frank had spent the past four months in Oklahoma, and his many friends were looking forward to his home-coming in a few weeks.
Wednesday afternoon he wrote a letter to his parents, telling them they were going to have a week's vacation
to hunt and fish and have a good time.
At 5 o'clock he was dead. He was a gentle, loving disposition, and his friends were legion. He leaves a sorrowing father and mother, one sister and four brothers with a host of other relatives and friends to mourn his untimely death. The remains were accompanied from Oklahoma by his brother Frank and a Mr. Parker, a dear friend of the deceased, and arrived in Milton Saturday, June 15, 1907, at 10:45 p. m. The funeral was held Saturday afternoon and the remains tenderly laid to rest in the beautiful cemetery there midst a profusion of beautiful bouquets and floral designs.

PRESENT SCHOOL
INJURES HEALTH

FACTS ABOUT THE JEFFERSON
BUILDING.

VENTILATION INSUFFICIENT

Each Student Should Get Thirty Cubic Feet of Air Per Minute and Now Gets Only Ten.

Though it is very evident that many improvements are needed in the Jefferson school building in the third ward the real necessity of these changes is shown best by facts and figures that have been furnished by Architect Chandler of the Racine firm of Park & Chandler, who are experts on school architecture. After an inspection of the structure Mr. Chandler reported that the walls were entirely solid, the floors strong and the roof still good, though the building was dedicated in 1887, just fifty years ago. But this wonderful preservation does not mean that the building is fit to accommodate nearly five hundred scholars nor are the 1887 ideas on lighting, heating, ventilation and sanitation considered trustworthy.

Ventilation and Lighting
According to doctors each child should be furnished with thirty cubic feet of air every minute and under present conditions only one-third the proper amount, ten cubic feet, is provided. Consequently a new heating system must be installed. Mr. Chandler's plans call for a hot air plant, fitted with a nine or ten-foot fan that will force the ventilation.

Another crying fault is the lighting.
In the first place each room has but two windows when it should have four and in the second place half the rooms are so furnished that the light comes over the children's right shoulders instead of left. If the light comes over the right shoulder when a person is writing a shadow of the right hand and arm is thrown on the paper and results in a strain on the eyes. So the remodeling plans show all the desks in the west rooms facing the north and those in the east rooms facing the south.

Protection Against Fire
The $35,000 plans called for the addition of two wings on the north and south ends of the building, making a building containing fifteen rooms. By abandoning the north wing an eleven-
room building will contain four wings,
each with twelve-foot halls running the entire north and south length. The old stone steps to the entries would be torn out and interior stairs be built.
Thus there would be ample protection against fire or panic. The south wing would contain an immense kindergarten room with large rounding bay window on the second. The need of such a kindergarten room is shown by the enrollment which numbers eighty-seven.

Complete by October 1.
If the plans can be given to contractors within the next few weeks the remodeling work could be completed by October first. This will mean that the children of the third ward will lose but very little time from their studies. The third floor of the building, which was originally the assembly room of the high school, will be left in practically its present condition and should the high school building be destroyed by fire at any time
the Jefferson building would make an excellent temporary high school.

S.S.S. BLOOD POISON CURES

The first symptom of Contagious Blood Poison is usually a little sore or ulcer which does not always excite suspicion because of its insignificance; but as the poison becomes more firmly rooted in the blood, the mouth and throat ulcerate, copper-colored spots appear, a rash breaks out on the body, the hair begins to come out, glands in the neck and groins swell, and often ulcerating sores form on the limbs, hands or face. But this is not all: if the poison is allowed to remain it works down and attacks the bones, causing necrosis or decay, and makes a complete physical wreck of the sufferer. It will not do to tamper with a disease so powerful as Contagious Blood Poison, for every day the virus remains in the blood the trouble is progressing toward a more dangerous stage, and may in the end get beyond the reach of any treatment. There is but one certain, reliable cure for Contagious Blood Poison, and that is S. S. S., the greatest of all blood purifiers. This remedy attacks the disease in the right way by going down into the blood and forcing out every particle of the poison. It makes the blood pure and rich, strengthens the different parts of the body, tones up the system and cures this humiliating and destructive disorder permanently. The improvement commences as soon as the patient gets under the influence of S. S. S. and continues until every vestige of the poison is driven from the blood, and the sufferer completely restored to health. S. S. S. is not an experiment, it is a success and has cured thousands of cases of Contagious Blood Poison in every stage, and being entirely free from minerals, is as safe as well as certain treatment. If you are suffering with this debasing disease get the poison out of your blood with S. S. S. before it does further damage. Special home treatment book on the disease and medical advice sent free to all who write.

By HAROLD MACGRATE

AUTHOR OF "THE MAN OF THE BOY" "HEARTS AND MINDS ETC."

There was a short struggle, and I saw the tall old man reel, fall and strike his head on the stone of the hearth. He lay perfectly motionless. So, unexpected was this scene to my eyes that for a time I was without any particular sense of movement. I stood like stone. With an evil laugh Steinbock sprang toward her highness again. Quick as light she snatched up my crop, which lay on the table, and struck the rascal full across the eyes, again and again and again, following him as he stepped backward. Her defense was magnificent. But, as fate determined to have it, Steinbock finally succeeded in wresting the stick from her grasp. He was wild with pain and chagrin. It was then I awoke to the fact that I was needed.

I rushed out, hot with anger. I caught Steinbock by the collar, just in time to prevent his lips from touching her cheek. I flung him to the floor, and knelt upon his chest. I am ashamed to confess it, but I recollect slapping the fellow's face as he struggled under me.

"You scoundrel!" I cried, breathing hard. "Kill him!" whispered her highness. She was furious; the blood of her marauding ancestors swept over her cheeks, and it ever I saw murder in a woman's eyes it was at that moment. "Hush, Hildegarde, hush!" The English girl caught the princess in her arms and drew her back. "Don't let me hear you talk like that. It is all over."

"Get up," I said to Steinbock, as I set him free. He crawled to his feet. He was very much disordered, and there were livid welts on his face. He shook himself, eyeing me evilly. There was murder in his eyes, too.

"Empty your pockets of those thousand crowns!"—peremptorily. "I was certain that I smelled tobacco," he sneered. "It would seem that there are other bridegrooms than myself."

"Those crowns, or I'll break every bone in your body!" I balled my fists. Nothing would have pleased me better at that moment than to pummel the life out of him.

Slowly he drew out the purse. It was one of those limp silk affairs so much affected by our ancestors. He balanced it on his hand. Its ends bulged with gold and bank-notes. Before I was aware of his intentions, he swung one end of it in so deft a manner that it struck me squarely between the eyes. With a crash of glass he disappeared through the window. The blow dazed me only for a moment, and I was not to be on his tracks. The Honorable Betty stopped me.

"He may shoot you!" she cried. "Don't go!"

Although half through the window, I crawled back, brushing my sleeves. Something warm trickled down my nose.

"You have been cut!" exclaimed her highness.

"It is nothing. I beg of you to let me follow. It will be all over with that fellow at large."

"Not at all." Her highness' eyes sparkled wickedly. "He will make for the nearest frontier. He knows now."

Max had come out of the far west. He was a founding who had been adopted by a wealthy German ranchman named Scharfstein, whose name Max assumed as his own, it being as good as any. Nobody knew anything about Max's antecedents, but he was so big and handsome and jolly that no one cared a hang. For all that he did not know his parentage, he was a gentleman, something that has to be bred in the bone. Once or twice I remember seeing him angry, in anger he was arrogant, deadly, but calm. He was a god in track-linen, for he was what few big men are, quick and agile. The few fellows who are catlike in his movements is the most formidable of athletes. One thing that invariably amused me was his inordinate love of uniforms. He would always stop when he saw a soldier or the picture of one, and his love of arms was little short of a mania. He was an expert fencer and a dead shot besides. (Pardon the parenthesis, but I feel it my duty to warn you that nobody fights a duel in this little history, and nobody gets killed.)

On leaving college he went in for medicine, and his appearance in the capital city of Barschelt was due obviously to the great medical college, famous the world over for its nerve specialists. This was Max's first adventure in the land of gutturals. I explained to him, and partly unraveled, the tangle of laws; as to the language, he spoke that, not like a native, but as one.

Max was very fond of the society of women, and at college we used to twit him about it, for he was always eager to meet a new face, trusting that the new one might be the ideal for which he was searching.

"Well, you old Dutchman," said I, "have you ever found that ideal woman of yours?"

"Bah!"—lighting a pipe. "She will never be found. A horse and a trusty dog for me; those two you may eventually grow to understand. Of course, I don't say, if the woman came along—the right one—I mightn't go under."

I'm philosopher enough to admit that possibility. I want her tall; hair like cornsilk, eyes like the corn-flower, of brilliant intellect, reserved, and dignified, and patient. I want a woman, not humorous, but who understands humor, and I have never heard of one. So, you see, it's all smoke; and I never talk woman these times unless I'm smoking;—with a gesture which explained that he had given up the idea altogether. "A doctor sees so much said contritely. "Shall I follow him, your highness?" "Let him go. It doesn't matter now. Betty, you were right, as you always are. I have played the part of a silly fool. I would have my own way in the matter. Well, I have this worthless paper. At least I can frighten the duke, and that is something."

"Oh, my dear, if only you would have listened to my advice!" the other girl said. There was deep discouragement in her tones. "I warned you so often that it would come to this end."

"Let us drop the matter entirely," said her highness.

I gazed admiringly at her—to see her sink suddenly into a chair and weep abandonedly! Leopold eyed her mournfully while the English girl rushed to her side and flung her arms around her soothingly.

"I am very unhappy," said the princess, lifting her head and shaking the tears from her eyes. "I am harassed on all sides; I am not allowed any will of my own. I wish I were a peasant!—Thank you, thank you! But for you that wretch would have kissed me." She held out her hand to me, and I bent to one knee as I kissed it. She was worthy to be the wife of the finest fellow in all the world. "I was very sorry for her, and thought many uncomplimentary things of the duke."

"I shall not ask you to forget my weakness," she said.

"It is already forgotten, your highness."

Under such circumstances I met the Princess Hildegarde of Barschelt; and I never betrayed her confidence until this writing, when I have her express permission.

Of Hermann Steinbock I never saw anything more. Thus the only villain passes from the scene. As I have repeatedly remarked, doubtless to your weariness, this is not my story at all; but in parenthesis I may add that between the Honorable Betty Moore and myself there sprang up a friendship which later ripened into something infinitely stronger.

This, then, was the state of affairs, when, one month later, Max Scharfstein poked his handsome blond head over the frontier of Barschelt; cue (as the dramatist would say), enter hero.

CHAPTER IV.

He came straight to the consulate and I was so glad to see him that I sat him down in front of the sideboard and left orders that I was at home to no one. We had been classmates and roommates at college, and two better friends never lived. We spent the whole night in recounting the good old days, sighed a little over the departed ones, and praised or criticized the living. Hadn't they been times, though? The nights we had stolen up to Philadelphia to see the shows, the great Thanksgiving games in New York, the commencements, and all that!

Max had come out of the far west. He was a founding who had been adopted by a wealthy German ranchman named Scharfstein, whose name Max assumed as his own, it being as good as any. Nobody knew anything about Max's antecedents, but he was so big and handsome and jolly that no one cared a hang. "Well, you old Dutchman," said I, "have you ever found that ideal woman of yours?"

"Bah!"—lighting a pipe. "She will never be found. A horse and a trusty dog for me; those two you may eventually grow to understand. Of course, I don't say, if the woman came along—the right one—I mightn't go under."

I'm philosopher enough to admit that possibility. I want her tall; hair like cornsilk, eyes like the corn-flower, of brilliant intellect, reserved, and dignified, and patient. I want a woman, not humorous, but who understands humor, and I have never heard of one. So, you see, it's all smoke; and I never talk woman these times unless I'm smoking;—with a gesture which explained that he had given up the idea altogether. "A doctor sees so much that I shall not hesitate a moment to put his affairs in the hands of the police."

"He will boast of what he has done." "Not till he has spent those thousand crowns." She crossed the room and knelt at the side of Leopold, dashing some water into his face. Presently he opened his eyes. "He is only stunned. Poor Leopold!"

I helped the old man to his feet, and he rubbed the back of his head grimly. He drew a revolver from his pocket.

"I had forgotten all about it," he said.

What's in a Name?

"That's a dandy cigar, Jim; where did you get it?"

"Just down the street."

"What's the name?"

"Don't remember the name of the brand, but it's one of those Triangle A brands we hear so much about nowadays."

The name of a brand of cigars is not in itself important—it only makes it easier for you to ask for the cigar you want.

What you want when you buy cigars is a guarantee—something by which you can distinguish the brands of one manufacturer from another—so that you can tell the good cigars from the poor ones.

And you have this guarantee in the Triangle A merit mark.

The American Cigar Company is the one manufacturer to distinguish its brands so that the smoking public may know who makes the best cigars.

Some manufacturers seem willing enough to hide behind pretty labels and cute names, and let you take chances on the cigars you buy. When you find one of these irresponsible brands is no good, you have no way of distinguishing other brands of the same manufacturer so you can fight shy of them. That's why so many poor cigars are sold.

And it's the best reason in the world why you should always look for the Triangle A when you buy cigars.

You can understand how every Triangle A brand must be good value, because if any brand bearing the Triangle A merit mark were poor quality it would not only kill the sale of that brand, but would hurt our whole business.

What better assurance would you want of honest cigar value? What better reason that you should always buy Triangle A brands?

If you like a really good domestic cigar we suggest you try

of women that he finally sees nothing of woman."

"Oh, if you resort to epigrams, I can see that it's all over."

"All over. I'm so used to being alone that I shouldn't know what to do with a wife." He puffed seriously. To be continued.

Utilization of Waste.

The United States Steel Corporation is installing 12 monster engines at various plants, the unique feature about them being that they do not require oil, coke, coal, wood or ordinary gas for fuel. They are to be operated solely with the gas which is generated in the company's blast furnaces during the process of steel manufacture. This gas has heretofore gone to waste, but hereafter it will be made to turn all the wheels. For a steel plant to be able to save the cost of its fuel is taking a very big stride toward economy. To be able to abolish smoke at the same time will add to its popularity in communities where the smoke-belching stacks have smothered the air with blackness. One more real triumph for the American restless brain.

Good Nature.

Good nature is more agreeable in conversation, than wit, and gives a certain air to the countenance, which is more amiable than beauty. It shows virtue in the faintest light, takes off in some measure from the deformity of vice, and makes even folly and impertinence supportable.—Addison.

Better Than Billboards.

Billboards, as they are known in the United States, are absolutely prohibited in Berlin, but in place of such oftentimes unsightly objects, public advertising is confined to a system of neat pillars or columns on the edge of the sidewalk at the principal street corners or intersections.
